

CCAA UPDATE

MAY 21, 2009

Waiting China Families.....

Last week CAS notified families that new referrals were experiencing a slow down, in response to the swine flu, which was also causing delays in travel. The information we received stated that the delay in referrals may last for a few months, possibly until September. There were other agencies that relayed the same information to their waiting families last week as well. As is the case of any unusual global occurrence, predictions are just that, predictions and we all experienced that with SARS.

The good news today, as many of you web site followers already know, is that the CCAA did release new referrals as you can see below, from their official notice.

Document Processing

The CCAA has finished the review of the adoption application documents registered with our office before April 30, 2007

The CCAA has finished the placement of children for the families whose adoption application documents were registered with our office before March 14, 2006.

CAS is excited that last week's information did not come to fruition and we are happy for those families who received referrals today. However, please remember that the current flu crisis is not over. Potential travel delays still exist in an effort to keep the virus contained and not put anyone unnecessarily at risk or be caught in a quarantine situation.
